Alton, IL - The Riverbender.com Community Center's popular Christmas Break program will once again offer full days of exciting entertainment for area students this year.

The program called "Gimme A Break!" returns to the Center January 2, 3 and 4, 2013. Not only will teens in grades 6 through 12 enjoy a variety of game tournaments (with prizes), workshops and classes, but this year the program will feature exciting presentations as well.

"America's Got Talent" contestant, Serengeti Steve will fascinate the audience on January 2 with his assortment of scorpions, snakes, spiders, reptiles and more. Not only will teens get to pet a snake or hold an alligator, they just might see Steve's famous act of placing a scorpion in his mouth!

Certified 6th Degree Black Belt Instructor, Sonny Hatten will teach The ABC's of Self Defense on January 3. Fellow Black Belts from Piasa Martial Arts will assist in teaching teens both how to be aware of their surroundings and of course how to block and prevent attacks.

Science certainly won't be boring on January 4 during Nitro Joe's Science Show. Straight from the St. Louis Science Center, Joe will amaze the audience as balloons explode, bubbles flow and creeping fog covers the floor as he demonstrates physical and chemical changes of different gases.

"We're so excited to add to our programming this year with Serengeti Steve, Sonny Hatten and Nitro Joe! These presentations will not only entertain the kids, but they will learn a little something while having fun," explained Michelle Pawloski, Director of Operations for the Center.

Pawloski added workshops will feature robotics, cartoon animation, jewelry making, make a YouTube video, t-shirt design, music "jam session," duck tape crafts, and more. Additional activities will include movie matinees, video game tournaments and "Minute To Win It" games.
