December 15 2017 12:27 PM

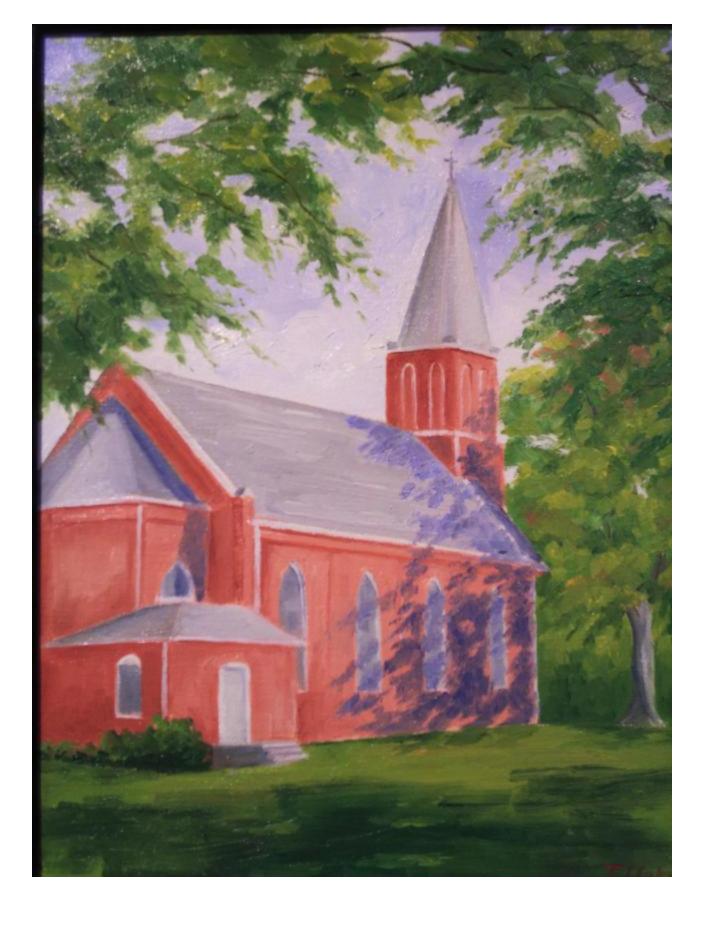

EDWARDSVILLE - The Edwardsville Arts Center is featuring a special juried art show in addition to their annual Holiday Show this year: "Plein Air Paintings: Churches of Madison County." This exhibit features 11 local artists who trekked outdoors at different times of the year, set up shop, and painted many of our county's beautiful churches.

John DenHouter, SIUE Associate Professor of Painting, juried the show. DenHouter is a skilled plein air painter and can be seen now and again on outdoor trips with his painting students around Edwardsville. Plein air painting has some additional challenges from painting indoors, as the artist is constantly battling changing light and weather conditions. "Time is of the essence" when painting outdoors, and artists often get lively and impressionistic results. DenHouter says about the challenges and excitement of plein air painting, "plein air painting presents the artist with the ultimate challenge of interpreting particular types of light depending on the season and atmospheric conditions all while working directly from nature. I am pleased to see how the exhibited works in 'Churches of Madison County' accomplish this goal in numerous ways. I would like to acknowledge and thank all the artists who accepted this challenge and carry on the tradition of painting 'en plein air!'"

The churches included in the exhibit include the First Church of Christ in Edwardsville, Center Grove Presbyterian Church in Edwardsville, Eden United Church of Christ in Edwardsville, Glenview Church of the Nazarene in Glen Carbon, St. James Lutheran
