EDWARDSVILLE - The Edwardsville YMCA Breakers have had a couple busy weekends this past weekend and this Friday through Sunday at the Chuck Fruit Aquatics Center.

A total of 406 competed in the Sprint Spectacular this past Saturday and this weekend the Breakers are hosting their annual Martin Luther King Meet at Chuck Fruit with a lot of strong competitors. The MLK Meet features semis and finals in the evening.

“Both meets are consistently good meets and well attended,” Edwardsville YMCA Breakers head coach Bob Rettle said. “Both are two of several great events we have at the Chuck Fruit Aquatic Center.”

The Edwardsville YMCA Breakers seem to never lose strength under head coach Bob Rettle and assistant Christian Rhoten, who is head coach of the Edwardsville High School boys and girls teams, and the other talented coaching staff. The program is recognized not only on a state level, but now across the country. Bailey Grinter, a graduate last year of EHS and the Breakers, is now one of the top swimmers in the USA at the University of Tennessee along with many other former Breakers and EHS swimmers in college programs.

The Sprint Spectacular has an interesting format with all sprints in 50-yard races for the older youth and 25-yard dashes for 8 and under swimmers. At the Sprint Spectacular, swimmers are eligible to win a jacket in the 50-yard race if they win their age group. Others winners receive stocking caps.

The MLK Meet will attract 450-500 kids through the weekend and youth from all over the Midwest. The MLK Meet is USA-sanctioned.
