"We're going to have specialty pieces of furniture that our volunteers have been preparing for the last month and a half," Dana Adams with Restore Decor said. "The pieces will only be available for people that are able to attend. Our customers have grown to love some of our reinvented and more unique pieces, so we've been saving some unique pieces. We'll have a beautiful antique buffet, we also have several benches that our volunteers have created out of old head boards and old chairs."
