

Ayers to present SIUE's inaugural Abraham Lincoln Memorial Lecture

February 13 2018 9:51 AM

EDWARDSVILLE - The Southern Illinois University Edwardsville College of Arts and Sciences (CAS), Department of Historical Studies and Emeriti Faculty Association will host the Inaugural Abraham Lincoln Memorial Lecture at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 28 in Lovejoy Library's Abbott Auditorium.

Renowned Civil War historian Edward L. Ayers, PhD, president emeritus and Tucker-Boatwright Professor of the Humanities at the University of Richmond, will present "Lincoln, Race, and Slavery," with a reception to follow.

The presentation is free and open to the public. Interested community members may park for free after 5 p.m. in the lot behind Lovejoy Library.

“We are excited to have such a distinguished scholar of the United States and the Civil War as Ed Ayers visit our campus,” said Erik Alexander, PhD, assistant professor in the Department of Historical Studies, who teaches courses on the Civil War and Abraham Lincoln. “Ed is among the preeminent Civil War historians writing today, and anyone interested in Abraham Lincoln or the Civil War will find his talk relevant and interesting.” As part of the event, Ayers will also visit with SIUE students in Alexander’s Civil War and Reconstruction course.

“Dr. Ayers’ scholarship concerning the Civil War and Reconstruction provides a critically important perspective that remains deeply relevant for our society,” added CAS Dean Greg Budzban, PhD. “As one of the pioneers of the digital humanities, his insights in this area will be extremely valuable to us in the College of Arts and Sciences.”
