June 3 2014 5:01 PM

The Roxana School District and an Alton resident Tom Johnson, received WellSpring Resources' "Heroes" award on Thursday, May 22. The awards honor community members and organizations that have actively worked to improve the lives of persons experiencing mental health issues in Madison, Jersey, Greene, or Calhoun Counties, Illinois. Past recipients of this award include Representative Daniel Beiser, former Chief Judge Ann Callis, and the Alton School District.

The Roxana School District was recognized for its efforts to improve the emotional health of students in Roxana and the surrounding area. Through a grant partnership with WellSpring Resources, the District works side by side with WellSpring staff to provide in-school or in-home counseling, crisis intervention, and education to district children, families and staff.

Tom Johnson was recognized for his work with the Crisis Intervention Team training for police officers. This training is designed to improve the way law enforcement handles people experiencing mental health crises. Johnson travels throughout Illinois to provide this training to police officers. Johnson is also a WellSpring Resources board member and volunteers a significant amount of time to his church, Main Street Methodist.

"Because of his dedication and tireless efforts, those struggling with mental health issues have a much better chance of getting help rather than being put behind bars when they encounter law enforcement," Karen McGarvey, WellSpring Resources Board President, said.

The 2014 "Heroes" will join others honored with a photo a brief description of their accomplishments in the WellSpring Alton office.
