Children who have experienced complex trauma often have difficulty identifying, expressing, and managing emotions, which can lead to unpredictable and explosive behavior. Childhood traumatic experiences have been linked to increased physical and mental health issues that can last into adulthood. This training provides practical information for anyone working with children or seeking to practice trauma sensitivity.

Objectives:

1. Identify common causes of complex trauma
2. Identify ways trauma and complex trauma present in children
3. Increase knowledge of complex trauma and how it impacts children's ability to identify, express and manage emotions
4. Discuss links between childhood trauma and physical and mental healthy challenges in adulthood
5. Discuss resources for managing trauma in children

Presenter: Amber Anderson, the Southern Region Prevention Specialist with Prevent Child Abuse Illinois.

Centerstone's Foundation secures philanthropic resources to support the work and mission of delivering care that changes people's lives.

WEST FRANKFORT – Centerstone, a national leader in behavioral health care, will host a free, virtual Trauma 101 training on February 24 from 10-11:30 a.m.

Children who have experienced complex trauma often have difficulty identifying, expressing, and managing emotions, which can lead to their behavior being unpredictable and explosive. Traumatic experiences in childhood have been linked to increased physical and mental health issues that can last into adulthood. This training provides practical information that can be useful for anyone working with children or seeking to practice trauma sensitivity.

Objectives of the training include:

- Identify common causes of complex trauma
- Identify ways trauma and complex trauma often present in children
- Increase knowledge of complex trauma and how it impacts children's ability to identify, express and manage emotions
- Discuss links between childhood trauma and physical and mental healthy challenges in adulthood
- Discuss resources for managing trauma in children

The presenter of the training will be Amber Anderson, the prevention specialist with Prevent Child Abuse Illinois.

“CT3’s aim is to increase access to trauma-focused treatment for children, adolescents and their families who have experienced traumatic events, including children and adolescents involved in the juvenile justice system and children of veterans,” said Ragan, CT3 Trauma Training and Care Coordinator.

The counties covered in the CT3 program include Franklin, Jackson, Madison, Perry, Randolph, St. Clair, Union, Washington and Williamson.

CT3 services include:

- Direct trauma and treatment services
- Therapy
- Care management
- Professional training and community education
- Outreach and engagement
- Screening and assessment
- Linkages to services and supports

CT3 develops and maintains local capacity to implement trauma-informed practices and provide evidence-based, informed trauma treatment interventions. The goals of the program are:

- Establish a community-based, culturally competent, quality, accessible program to provide and increase access to effective trauma focused treatment and services systems for children, adolescents, and their families who witness or experience traumatic events.
- Develop a sound infrastructure and increase community capacity to implement trauma-informed services for the focus population.
- Improve the health status and outcomes for young children – ages 2 to 9 years old, adolescents – ages 10 to 17 years old, and families as measured at intake, 6 months and discharge follow-up.
- Develop and disseminate a thoroughly documented model with measurable objectives for statewide and national replication and adoption.
