September 30 2014 11:20 AM

GODFREY – It will be Trailblazers versus letter carriers as former members of Lewis and Clark Community College’s men's basketball team play against the USPS Letter Carriers in a fundraising exhibition game on Saturday, Oct. 4 at the Hartford Community Gym.

The doors open at 6 p.m. and the game is scheduled to start at 7 p.m. All proceeds from the event will benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

“This game will be a great time for a great cause,” said Doug Stotler, head basketball coach and athletic director at L&C.

“It will be good to catch up with some of our former players and see if we can post a win. I hope people will come out to watch and support the MD Association.”
