ST. LOUIS - To help communities impacted by Hurricane Ida recover from the disaster, Ameren Corporation not only sent equipment and hundreds of co-workers to Louisiana, the company is also donating $10,000 to the American Red Cross for additional relief assistance.

"Our thoughts go out to all the communities impacted by Hurricane Ida as they go about the work of recovering from the damage caused by this storm," said Warner Baxter, chairman, president, and CEO of Ameren Corporation. "In addition to deploying hundreds of our Ameren co-workers to assist with getting the power back on, we are adding a donation to support the American Red Cross and the critical role they play in providing emergency relief to so many in need during this challenging time."

Ameren is an engaged partner in the electric industry's mutual assistance network through Edison Electric Institute, and is available to help with workforce resources, while also providing financial donations when emergencies in other parts of the country occur. Through the mutual assistance network, Ameren Illinois and Ameren Missouri are eligible to ask for assistance from neighboring energy companies when a crisis occurs.

For those wishing to make their own donation, please visit RedCross.org to make a contribution.
