ALTON - One morning several years ago, Alton Alderwoman Rosie Brown looked out her home window and observed a young boy shivering with high pants and no visible socks. That situation inspired her so much that she began a mission to try to ensure young children in the Alton area have new socks for winter.

Rosie's Sixth Annual Socks for Tots Drive during November-December is off and running.

"This is our sixth year and the socks drive has kicked off," she said. "We are looking for a very successful socks drive. People in our community truly care about their children. This has made a big difference and the schools and daycares look forward to the socks drive every year."

Anyone with any questions please contact Rosie at 618-433-9976.
