

ICCB Provides Nearly $23 Million To Address Educational And Career Programing Equity In Illinois

December 22 2021 1:23 PM

SPRINGFIELD – The Illinois Community College Board (ICCB) has granted $22.8 million to community colleges and other community-based organizations throughout Illinois to help address education and unemployment gaps for African American and other minority communities. The funding will be used by 18 community colleges and nearly 20 other organizations that serve minority populations under Illinois’ Workforce Equity Initiative (WEI) or the Innovative Bridge and Transition Grant program (IBT) which helps low-income individuals remove barriers to completing their education and elevating career goals.

“The ongoing pandemic has disrupted education and employment opportunities for our hundreds of thousands of Illinoisans, disproportionately affecting African American and other minority communities. Supporting and scaling effective and equitable education and career opportunities is critical for helping these targeted populations for post-pandemic recovery,” said ICCB executive director Brian Durham.

2021 WEI FUNDING

With the support of the Illinois legislative Black Caucus, Illinois’ Workforce Equity Initiative enters its third year helping participating colleges develop or enhance training and career pathway programs in high demand employment sectors such as health care, manufacturing and construction, transportation, information technology, and emergency services.

The development of the WEI Consortium was created to address an Illinois Community College Board report which found that minorities, particularly African Americans, were severely underrepresented among Career and Technical Education (CTE) program graduates. A list of the 2021 WEI grantees is below.
