3 Sisters Tea, Apothecary & Yoga Studio will be hosting its grand opening on April 2 from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. Originally based online, the tea business will be moving into its first brick-and-mortar location at 221 South State Street in Jerseyville.

“3 Sisters Tea, Apothecary & Yoga Studio is a welcoming place for the community to gather for delicious, artisan tea beverages & healthy snacks as they browse our collection of products for women-owned small businesses,” said Alyssa Rehel, director of marketing & public relations for 3 Sisters Tea. “All are welcome to our 3 Sisters Yoga studio for a wide variety of classes for all ages and abilities.”

The grand opening event will feature yoga classes, tea beverages, and snacks in their café and a host of other small businesses' products (such as thrifted clothing and natural body care products) to shop in their women-owned small business boutique.

Sisters & co-owners NaRetta Forrester, NaShona Staples, and NaTiya Fagg started creating their own unique loose leaf tea blends during the pandemic and officially founded 3 Sisters Tea as an online tea business in December 2020. The same month, Forrester completed her 200-Hour Yoga Teacher Training program to add her passion for yoga as another component of the business.

After a long search for the right store/studio space, Rehel said they “found the perfect location in Jerseyville” last month and began working on a tea and snack menu, developing a yoga class schedule, and networking with other small women-owned businesses who are in need of a brick-and-mortar location to create a small business boutique for their customers.

“We are most proud of the way we have worked together as a family to create our signature tea blends, and the welcoming energy we give to other women-owned small businesses to share their handmade products like we do! We believe in community and family, and seek to bring those values into the business community,” Rehel said.
