PONTOON BEACH - Two Madison County Trail vandals have been apprehended thanks to a video provided by a Glen Carbon resident. Madison County Transit officials, the Edwardsville Police, and Madison County State's Attorney Thomas Haine saluted a Glen Carbon resident - Loren Strahm - this past week for the efforts to capture two who have been vandalizing the trails.

In a brief presentation, Madison County Transit (MCT) Managing Director SJ Morrison presented Strahm with a reward check for $1,000 for providing information that enabled the Edwardsville Police Department to identify the two individuals. Also on hand for the presentation, which took place on the MCT Nickel Plate Trail, were Edwardsville Police Lieutenant Charlie Kohlberg and Madison County State's Attorney Tom Haine.

In recent months, vandalism and graffiti on the MCT Trails have increased significantly. In June, MCT issued a public reminder about its commitment to investigate incidents of vandalism along the trails. MCT also reiterated its long-standing offer of a $1,000 reward for information that leads to the apprehending and conviction of any individuals or groups defacing the MCT Trails.

While on a bike ride in July, Strahm encountered two juveniles spray-painting graffiti along the MCT Goshen Trail under New Poag Road in Edwardsville. Strahm captured the scene on video and submitted it to the Edwardsville Police Department, who were able to swiftly identify the offenders, and they have since been charged.

“Because much of the graffiti is obscene or offensive, we work to get it removed right away,” said MCT Managing Director SJ Morrison. “What may seem like a minor prank is actually very destructive, and is a major expense for MCT.”

Keeping the MCT Trails safe, clean, and welcoming for all trail goers is a top priority for MCT.

“We’re extremely grateful to Mr. Strahm for his quick action and thankful for the hard work of the Edwardsville Police Department and Madison County State’s Attorney Tom Haine,” said Morrison. “We hope this incident acts as a deterrent to prevent future vandalism on the MCT Trails.”

MCT encourages the community to report vandalism, graffiti, or even downed trees or other issues on the MCT Trails by emailing trails@mct.org. Anyone with information about the source of graffiti/vandalism on the MCT Trails is encouraged to call the Edwardsville Police Department at 618-656-2131.
