Schnucks Flexforce teammates can optimize their work schedules by selecting shifts and store locations that best fit their personal schedules while creating opportunities for growth and learning at a pace determined by the teammate.

Flexforce teammates can log into a Schnucks scheduling app to view and claim open shifts and, if they choose, can also opt-in to receive notifications of open shifts.

“Much like rideshare and food delivery service employees, Flexforce teammates can seek and claim shifts at the time and location of their choosing,” said Schnucks Vice President of Store Operations Stacy Brandt. “The Flexforce employment option not only allows us to position our teammates for success, but it also helps us ensure we have the right people, in the right place, at the right time taking care of and serving our customers.”

Flexforce is currently reserved for those at least 18 years old. Flexforce teammates will receive the same benefits and perks as traditional Schnucks teammates including career advancement, the option to be paid after each shift, health benefits (after a qualifying period), and a teammate discount.
